A formalised curriculum, which focuses on emotional wellbeing

Why is emotional wellbeing important to this cohort of students?

If you are emotionally well, you're able to:

- Enjoy life
- 'Cope'
- recover from disappointment/deal with frustration
- be optimistic not fearful.

If the students are emotionally well they can achieve their potential which includes developing their independence.

What will it look like?

- 9 class groups
- High level of support
- A timetable of core and additional activities
- A curriculum which is defined by the students' ability on a day to day basis planning which is flexible but individualised to maximise the learning potential of the day
- Assessment based on each students' EHC plan and the schools "Pathways".

Pathways and the WISERR

The Pathways department will focus on the 7 areas of engagement: responsiveness, curiosity, discovery, anticipation, persistence, initiation, and investigation. As recommended by The Rochford Report 2018.

curriculum.

- The Wiserr curriculum covers the entire school day rather than specific lessons.
- It consists of 'Core' and 'Additional' learning events.
- Each learning event has a learning plan. The core curriculum is accessed by all students in all classes irrespective of their chronological age.
- The additional curriculum is accessed by some or all students in some classes dependent on their learning needs.
- The provision of learning opportunities to achieve targets agreed at their Education and Health Care Plan Review (EHCP) are a priority.
- The core curriculum consists of two different types of learning events which have different teaching styles. Teacher/TA lead(TL) and activities of daily living (ADL).
- ADL learning events occur throughout the day. Although they may include an element of direction from the teacher, they should form part of the natural events of the day.
